New Orleans, Louisiana -- With performances from Nine Inch Nails and Pearl Jam already confirmed, Voodoo Music + Arts Experience has announced the addition of The Cure to their already stacked roster. The festival will mark the band's first performance in New Orleans in 13 years, as well as the group's inaugural set at the festival. In addition to the three headliners, the 15th edition of the festival will include performances from Macklemore & Ryan Lewis, Calvin Harris, Bassnectar, Paramore, Boys Noize, Afrojack, and more. Scroll down to view the full lineup.

Voodoo will also host interactive art installations throughout City Park's Festival Grounds, ranging from local artists to those who are internationally recognized. Artists will be asked to create site-specific, large scale installments based on the park's geography as well as Voodoo's intrinsic culture. The festival's art is curated by Voodoo production designer Stefan Beese in addition to Voodoo's founder and producer Stephen Rehage. All installation materials are required to emphasize sustainability and recycled materials.

Voodoo is scheduled for November 1-3 at the newly-opened Festival Grounds in City Park, and General Admission Weekend Credential passes are currently on sale for $175. Loa, or VIP, Credential tickets are also available for $500, or opt for Artist Credentials, priced at $2500 for two. Camping passes start at $50.

Although our 2013 guide isn't quite ready yet, consult our Voodoo Experience 2012 Festival Guide for a list of places to eat, sleep, shop, party, and explore in New Orleans.
